1. How we collect Personal Data

When we use the term "Personal Data," we mean information that can be used to identify you as an individual person. We collect limited categories of Personal Data through our Services, including through:

- Data you provide: for example, if you register or create an account on our site, we need to collect your name and email address. Similarly, when you contract with us for our Services, we need to collect your name, contact details and payment information. In addition, we collect Personal Data you provide to us through optional, voluntary submissions (e.g. when contacting us to inquire about our Services or submit complaints, to provide feedback or to receive our electronic newsletters, to participate in our blog(s), and to participate in polls and surveys). For further information, please see Section 2 below.

- Data collected automatically: for example, information collected through Cookies on our website or through aggregated tracking information derived mainly by tallying page views throughout our sites. This information allows us to best tailor our content to users' needs and to help improve our website functionality. For further information, please see Section 2 below.

- Data we receive from third-party sources: for example, as part our Services, we may lawfully collect or license (including from national and international trade mark registries and authorized licensors) information about individual registered trade mark owners and applicants, as well as individual domain name registrants and administrative/technical contacts – this information may contain limited (and publically available) Personal Data, including names, mailing addresses and other contact information published as part of trade mark and domain name registrations. In addition, if your employer is our client or a client of one of our partners, they may have provided us with your Personal Data in order for us to contact you about the Services we perform for your employer, to register you as a user of our Services and/or to manage the contract between us and your employer. For further information, please see Section 2 below.

- Data collected from publically-available and other third-party sources: as part our Services, we may collect on behalf of our clients limited Personal Data about sellers and advertisers of certain products from publically-available and other third-party sources, including from websites, social media, online stores and marketplaces and other similar sales channels. We may also collect similar information for our own purposes. For further information, please see Section 2 below.

In certain circumstances we may ask for your consent to process your Personal Data. In such circumstances you have the right to withdraw your consent at any time. However, this will not affect the lawfulness of any processing undertaken by us prior to the withdrawal of your consent.

In such circumstances, our clients (or our partners’ clients) are the data controllers of the Seller Information processed by us on their behalf and, where applicable, they are responsible for providing you with (or making available) any fair processing information required under relevant data protection laws and otherwise complying with any rights you may have regarding any Seller Information relating to you.

However, we may also collect and process limited Seller Information independently of our client relationships, including in order for us to conduct research and statistical analysis in relation to counterfeiting trends and developments in the industries and markets in which our clients and other third parties operate, and to improve and optimize our Services. We collect this information, which may include, to the extent publicly available, your seller/account name, your name and contact details, such as your email address, phone/fax number, from publicly available sources, including websites, social media, online stores, marketplaces and other similar sales channels. In accordance with the GDPR’s principle of data minimization, we limit the amount of Seller Information collected as much as reasonably possible. We also anonymise or delete all copies of Seller Information before producing any reports, materials or other work products or otherwise sharing the results of our research and analysis with any third parties. We do not retain Seller Information (or copies thereof) following its anonymization or deletion. In such circumstances, we are the data controller of your information and we rely on our legitimate interests (Art. 6 para. 1 (f) GDPR), including as described below in Additional Uses of Personal Data and Legitimate Interests, for such processing.

The remainder of this Privacy Policy does not apply to any Seller Information processed by Corsearch on behalf of our clients as a data processor.

5. Retention of Personal Data

We will only retain your Personal Data for as long as necessary to fulfill the purposes we collected it for, including for the purposes of satisfying any legal, accounting, or tax requirements.

To determine the appropriate retention period for Personal Data, we consider the amount, nature, and sensitivity of the Personal Data, the potential risk of harm from unauthorized use or disclosure of your Personal Data, the purposes for which we process your Personal Data and whether we can achieve those purposes through other means, and the applicable legal requirements.

8. Security

We take appropriate steps to protect your Personal Data against loss, misuse, and unauthorized access, disclosure, alteration, or destruction.

Corsearch employees who handle Personal Data are subject to policies and procedures to protect your Personal Data, are required to treat it confidentially and may not disclose it to unauthorized third parties. You should keep in mind that no Internet transmission is ever 100% secure or error-free. In particular, emails sent to or from this site or to Corsearch may not be secure, and you should therefore take special care in deciding what information you send to us. Moreover, we have reasonable technical safeguards and security measures in place functionally with the site, but where you use passwords, ID numbers, or other special access features on this site, it is your responsibility to safeguard them.

9. Links to Other Websites

This site may contain links or references to third-party websites that are not controlled by Corsearch. This Privacy Policy does not apply to those websites. We encourage you to read the privacy policy or notice of every website you visit.

10. Opt-Out Policy

We give users options wherever necessary and practical. Such choices include:
- opting not to register to receive our electronic newsletters;
- opting not to be contacted by telephone, direct mail or email; and
- opting not to participate in certain interactive areas.

11. User Generated Content

Some of our Services may enable users to submit their own content to participate online or through social media, and/or other functions. Please remember that any information you submit or post as user-generated content to the Services may be seen by other registered users. You should exercise caution when deciding to disclose your personal, financial or other information in such submissions or posts. We cannot prevent others from using such information in a manner that may violate this Privacy Policy, the law, or your personal privacy and safety. We are not responsible for the results of such postings.

12. Your Duties and Rights

Your duty to inform us of changes

It is important that the Personal Data we hold about you is accurate and current. Please keep us informed if your Personal Data changes during your engagement with us.

Your rights in connection with Personal Data

If your Personal Data is protected under the GDPR, CCPA or other similar data protection laws, under certain circumstances, you may have the right to:
- Request access to your Personal Data (commonly known as a "data subject access request"). This enables you to request a copy of the Personal Data we hold about you and to check that we are processing it lawfully.
• Request correction of the Personal Data that we hold about you. This enables you to have any incomplete or inaccurate information we hold about you corrected.

• Request erasure of your Personal Data. This enables you to ask us to delete or remove Personal Data where there is no good reason for us continuing to process it.

• Object to the processing of your Personal Data where we are relying on a legitimate interest (or those of a third party) and, other than for the purposes of direct marketing, there is something about your particular situation which makes you want to object to processing on this ground. You have the right to object to our use of your Personal Data for direct marketing at any time.

• Opt-out of the sale of your Personal Data. Since we do not sell your Personal Data, you are already opted-out of such sales.

• Request the restriction of processing of your Personal Data. This enables you to ask us to suspend the processing of Personal Data about you, for example if you want us to establish its accuracy or the reason for processing it.

• Request the transfer of your Personal Data to another party. This right will only apply in limited circumstances, where we process your Personal Data based on your consent or where the processing of Personal Data is necessary for the performance of a contract between us.

Where applicable, to exercise any of these rights, please contact us.

The rights described herein are not absolute and we reserve all of our rights available to us under applicable law in this regard.

We do not discriminate against you, for example, by charging you a different price or offering a different level of service, for exercising any of these rights.

You also have the right to lodge a complaint with your competent Data Protection Supervisory Authority. We would, however, appreciate the opportunity to address your concerns before you approach a supervisory authority, so please contact us in the first instance.

No fee usually required
You will not usually have to pay a fee to access your Personal Data (or to exercise any of the other rights above, where applicable). However, in accordance with the GDPR and other similar data protection laws, we may charge a reasonable fee if your request is clearly unfounded or excessive. Alternatively, we may refuse to comply with the request in such circumstances.

What we may need from you
We may need to request specific information from you to help us confirm your identity and ensure your right to access the information (or to exercise any of your other rights) and, in some instances, provide a signed declaration under penalty of perjury that you are the individual whose personal information is the subject of the request. If it is necessary to collect additional information from you, we will use the information only for verification purposes and will delete it as soon as practicable after complying with the request. For requests related to particularly sensitive information, we may require additional proof of identification. This is another appropriate security measure to ensure that Personal Data is not disclosed to any person who has no right to receive it.

If you make a request through an authorized agent, we will require written proof that the agent is authorized to act on your behalf.

Time to respond
We try to respond to all legitimate requests within one month. Occasionally it may take us longer than a month if your request is particularly complex or you have made a number of requests. In this case, we will notify you and keep you updated.

California Residents – “Shine the Light”
We do not provide your Personal Data to third parties for such third parties’ direct marketing purposes. Please note that California Civil Code Section 1798.83 permits California residents to request certain information regarding disclosure of such individuals’ personal information to third parties for such third parties’ direct marketing purposes. As noted in the “How We Use Personal Data” section above, your Personal Data may be subject to certain third parties’ privacy policies.
